IRELAND

August 29th to September 1st 2013

Information:

IRELAND

Ireland is a place like no other, a charming and exciting destination full of history, culture and 'craic'. The island, located on the western coast of Europe, covering an area of 84.500 km<sup>2</sup> and has a population of 4 million people.

The landscape of Ireland is beautiful and diverse, ranging from mountainous regions and heather lush green valleys to spectacular cliffs and beaches along the coast.

Ireland has taken off economically in the last 15 years, Dublin has become a dynamic, fun and full of atmosphere. It was a fairly poor country in most of the twentieth century, but benefited greatly when he joined the European Community in 1973 and is today one of the richest nations in Europe.

DUBLIN

Elegant, sophisticated, historical and fashionable, Dublin is one of Europe's leading capitals of the moment, you rub off their energy and youthful atmosphere. From its origins as a small Viking settlement, to its emergence as a modern and multicultural city, the history of Dublin has already traveled more than a thousand years. The timeless charm of Dublin is in the air you breathe. Its dynamic cultural life and old pubs make Dublin a city full of character. A powerful cultural program throughout the entire year of food festivals, literature, music and sports.

Divided in two by the River Liffey, Dublin is situated in a natural privileged Irish seaside at the foot of the rugged mountains of Dublin. Dublin has a population of about 1 million. The Irish people are considered one of the friendliest in the world with his unique sense of humor, his warmth and welcoming spirit. Dublin is famous for its pubs, churches, museums and elegant magnificent buildings and one of the best advantages is that the visitor can find everything the city has to offer within a small area.
